The Wonders of the Atmosphere The Wonders of the Atmosphere.

The atmosphere rises above us with its cathedral dome, arching toward heaven, of which it is the most perfect aynonym and symbol. It floats around us like that grand object which the Apostle John saw in his vision, "a sea of glass like unto cryafal." So massive is it, that when it begins to stir, it tosses about great ships like playthings, and aweeps cities and forests like snow flakes, to destruction before it. And yet it is so mobile, that we have lived years in it before we can be persuaded that it gives at all, and we can be persuaded that it exists at all, and the great bulk of mankind never realize the truth that they are bathed in an ocean of air. Its weight is so enormous, that from shivers before it like glass; yet a soap ball sails through it with impunity, and the tiniest insect waves it aside with his wing. It ministers layishly to all the senses. We fouch it not but it touches us. Its warm south wind brings back color to the pair face of the invalid; its cool west winds refresh the severed brow and make the blood warmte. valid; its cool west winds refresh the severed brow, and make the blood mantle on our cheeks; even its north blasts brace into new vigor the hardened children of our rugged climate. The eye is indebted to it for all the magnificence of sunrise, the full brightness of midday, the chastened radiance of the gloam-ing, and the clouds that cradle near the set-ting sun. Rut for It, the rainbow would want its "trimphant arch," and the winds would not send their fleery messagers on want its "trimphant arch," and the wind-would not send their fleecy messengers on errands around the heavens.

The cold ether would not shed snow feath-ers on the earth, nor would drops of dew gather on the flowers. The kindly rain would never fall, nor hail storm nor tog di-versify the face of the sky. Our naked globe would turn its tanned and unshadowed forehead to the sun, and one dreary, monoto-nous blaze of light and heat dazzle and burn up all things. Were there no atmosphere. nous blaze of light and heat duzzle and burn up all things. Were there no atmosphere, the evening sun would in a moment set, and, without warning, plunge the earth in darkness. But the air keeps in her hand a sheath of her rays, and lets them slip but slowly through her fingers so that the shadows of evening are gathered by degrees, and the flowers have time to bow their heads, and each creature space to find a place of rest, and to nestle to repose. In the morning, the garish sun would at one bound burst from the bosom of night, and blaze above the horizon; but the air watches for his coming, and sends but first only one little ray to announce his approach, and then another, and by a handful, and so gently draws aside the curtain of night, and slowly lets the light fall on the face of the sleeping earth, till her eyelids open, and like man, she goeth forth again to her labor until the evening.— Quarterly Review.

Conveict of the Bear with the Kettle.—
The bears of Kamschatka live chiefly on fish, which they procure themselves from the river. A few years ago the fish became very scarce, Emboldened by hunger the bears, instead of retiring to their dens, wandered about, and sometimes entered the villages. One day a bear finding the outer door of a house open, entered it and the door accidentally closed after him. The woman of the house had just put on the fire a kettle of boiling water. This bruin smelt, it burnt his nose, when, provoked at the pain, he vented his utmost tury on the tea-kettle. He folded his arms around it, pressed it with his whole strength against his breast to crush it—only, of course, to be more severely burnt. His horrible growling from rage and pain now krought the neighbors to the spot, and a few shots ended his misery. But to this day, when any one injures himself by his own violence, the villagers cail him, with great propriety, "the bear and the tea-kettle." CONFLICT OF THE BEAR WITH THE KETTLE .-

DOUGLAS'S MOTHER-IN-LAW ON HER MUSCLE, The "special artist" of one of the New York The 'special artist of one of the New York illustrated papers recently visited Washington, and one of his objects was to sketch the interior of Judge Douglas's house. The Judge was not at home, but the artist, as he sat in the library, pulled out his sketch-book and commenced taking notes. But his occupation was interrupted by the entrance of the Judge's mother-in-law, who percaptorily ordered "Grayon" to leave the hous. The ordered "Crayon" to leave the house. The poor artist attempted to explain the nature of his mission, but the lady disdained to listen. Taking "Crayon" by his arm, she escorted him to the front door, and to accelescored him to the front-door, and to accelerate his departure, placed her hand upon his shoulders, and landed him at once in the middle of the street. Mrs. Cults is well known in Washington for her bellicose qualities, and it is said she talks of challenging Heenan, on his return to this country, to a purellistic encounter.

THE MONEY-BORROWER'S VERBAL REVENGE We lately heard a story of a money lender, who had acquired the reputation of being as parsihad acquired the reputation of being as parsi-monious and enviousas he was rich. Having occasion to visit a man to whom he had fre-quently lent money with usury, (and who had, by industry and punctuality, acquired a competence,) he was most cordially received by his former customer, who took him into his well kept garden. Passing through a walk lined on either side with beautiful flowwalk lined on either side with beautiful flow-ers, the money lender made no remark until he came to a patch of potatoes, when he ex-claimed: "My friend, you'll have a nice crop of potatoes." "Yes," was the reply, "that's just like you. When gentlemen and tadies pass through my garden, they all admire my flowers, but when I bring in a d——d hog, all he can see is notatoes!"

A WOMAN COMPELLED BY HER HUSBAND TO Anoper MALE ATTIRE.—A woman about twenty-five years old was brought into a Boston station-house the other evening disguised in male attire. She states that she belongs to a respectable finily in the State of New York, and married about three months since in New York city. Subsequently, with her husband, she visited Philadelphia, where he sold or pawned nearly all her wardrobe. They then came to Boston, and went to board at a private house, After various other persecutions, he, on some pretext, and by threats, induced her to put on a male suit. According to her statement her husband has A WOMAN COMPELLED BY HER HUSBAND TO According to her statement her husband has abused her almost constantly. While going to the station the husband attempted to bribe the officer to obtain her rolease.

DRUIDICAL REMAINS DISCOVERIED IN FRANCE. A curious discovery, says the Echo du Nord, was made near Lille by the workmen engaged in cutting trenches for the new fortifications. In removing the soil they laid bare a stone tumulus, which, instead of bones, contained a large block of stone, covered with inscriptions indicating that it was an altar used by the Druids in their sacrifices. The names Hesus and Teutates, gods adored by the Gauls, are perfectly legible on it. Near the stone a sacred golden knife, used by the Druids for cutting the mistletoe, was also found. The inscriptions on this stone corroborate the fact already known, that human sacrifices were made by the Druids in time of national calamity. The knife has been placed in the museum at Lille.

SAINT PATRICE'S DAY IN LONDON.—In cele-bration of the national festival, the Irishmen in London (titled and otherwise) got up pub-lic dinners. At one of the more aristocratic assemblages Sam Lover returned thanks for the Literature, Poets and Fine Arts of Ire-land.

DEATH OF AN IRISH CENTENARIAN .- On the 22d April Mr. John Alexander, of Moulough, died at the advanced age of 104 years. He was in Carrickfergus at the time it was taken by Thurot, the French commander. He en-joyed such excellent health that he was able to walk about his farm till lately.

TERRIBLE DEPRAYITY OF A HUSBAND,—The Detroit police, the other night, found a poor woman in a low whisky shop perfectly nude, bound hand and foot over a stone under which fires were being lighted; all because she refused to make merchandize of her virtue at the command of her husband. The husband and his accomplice have unfortunately escaped the police.

A letter from Bologna says: "It is impossible for an Englishman to form an exact ides sible for an Englishman to form an exact dea of what a prison in this country really is. In those horrible and filthy holes, hundreds of human beings are placed, covered with rags and swarming with vermin. Beside a dis-gusting soup and a scarcely digestible, piece of meat, the Government allows a bajocco a day—a fraction above a half-penny—to each prisoner. The jailor is permitted to keep a restaurant, to which the prisoners can apply for provisions at ready money. This man, therefore, is the sole lawful purveyor of the prison, and can raise the price of victuals nocison, and can raise the price of victuals ac-ording to his pleasure. When I visited the local prison of Rimini, I saw two poor men who were nearly starved to death, I asked who were nearly starved to death, I asked one of them how he had come to such a condition, and he told me that he had sold his daily bajoeco to the jailor for three months to come. The custode, who was then present, observed that the poor fellow being very fond of wine, had drunk his ninety bajoecos all in one day. The half-starved prisoner made no more impression upon him than a starving rat would have done. Nor is this the only evil in the position of these wretched menfor beggary is not only tolerated but encoured by the jailor, who knows that the money thus collected goes to swell his purse. The result of this iniquitous sys-tem is that the custodi of the prisons often retire after ten or twelve years with a hand-some fortune, the fruit of their avaricious ex-tortions.

THE "HARMONY" OF THE CHARLESTON CO. VENTION .- The editor of the Savannah (Ga. Republican, writing from Charleston, says of the Convention :

"The report sent gives but a faint idea o The report sent gives but a faint idea of the spirit and manner that characterized the action of the Convention. It opened boisterous, and instead of a harmonious party, assembled through their delegates to give expression to the popular will, it appeared more like two contending armies, inflamed with mutual suspicions, jealousies and wrongs, and architectures. each intent upon the overthrow and demoli-tion of the other. The Convention sat until about three o'clock, and the very worst spirit prevailed throughout the session. In two minutes after the close of the preliminary prayer (which, by the way, was most uncon-scionable in its length) the entire body was thrown into an uproar and confusion worse

SINGULAR GEOLOGICAL PHENOMENON,-A ery singular geological phenomenon has tartled the inhabitants of Thonon. At Orcier, in the midst of the chain of me the soil suddenly sunk and a lake of con-siderable extent took its place. The highest besnut trees which covered the spot entirely disappeared, and, strange to say, the surface of the lake was covered with the trunks of trees which appeared to have been long un-der water, and of species no longer known is those parts.

The California Gold Mines Pointed out Years Ago.—Long before gold was discovered in California and Australia, Sir Roderick Murchison, an eminent English savant, strongly recommended the unemployed Cornish miners to emigrate to New South Wales, and dig for gold in the debris and drift of what he called the Australian Cordillera, where he anticipated, from their similarity with the Ural Mountains, that it would be found in abundance.

AN UNPRECEDENTEDLY EXPENSIVE COSTUME The cost of the complete ball dress and diamonds of the Empress Eugenie, in which, as we have mentioned, she appeared in Paris on the 17th ult., in the character of "Diana," is estimated at $2,000,000. Will not our American belies despair, and die of envy, at this extravagance?

MILLERISM REDIVIVES.—The Second Adventists of Newark, N. J., still keep up their weekly meetings, and are firmly grounded in the belief that the end of all things is close at hand. The number of believers habitually in attendance at the meetings is but small, but there is no lack of zeal or fervor.

THE EFFECT OF HUMBOLDT'S CORRESPONDENCE.—"Fools's Paradise" in Berlin has vanished at last before Humboldt's private correspondence, and it is now on the eve of a revolution like that of Paris in 1848. The King has been compelled to come down in his pretentions, and to dismiss some of his obnoxious creatures.

The London News of the 18th ult., in regard to the famous prize fight, after quoting the remarks of some of the sporting papers speaks thus sensibly: And this is the "noble art" to see which has

The Montreal (Canada) Gazette, of the 30th ult., has received, from a well-informed correspondent, an account of the intended programme of the movements of His Royal Highness the Prince of Wales, on the occasion of his approaching visit to this continent, to which we attach credence. The date of his departure from England is to be the middle of July—the 15th, with a fleet, as before multiple of the property of the state of the sta And this is the "noble art" to see which hundreds, it is said thousands, paid their three guineus a piece yesterday. For this, the days of our grandfathers, those "glorious old Corinthians," are to be revived. The simple account of the matter appears to be that the American, a man in the flower of youth, much taller, longer in the arm, three stone heavier than his opponent, early gained an advantage over Sayers by sheer strength, disabling his right arm, and from that time directing his blows to the undefended side. What beyond the well ascertained fact that Sayers was a man of skill and fortitude, was to be taught by the conflict of the two men before published. His first port on this side of the Atlantic will be St. Johns, Newfound-land. The Lieutenant-Governor of that island, as we have already announced, has reisland, as we have already announced, has re-ceived a letter informing him of the inten-tion. Thence he will proceed to Halifax, and thence cross over the country and visit St. John, N. B., and Frederickton. If prac-ticable, he will thence cross over to Shediac, where his fleet will go round Quebec. If he finds difficulty in getting to Shediac, he may cross to Portland, and come over the Grand Trunk Railway to Quebec and Mon-treal. Sayers was a man of skill and fortitude, was to be taught by the conflict of the two men so unequally matched, we can not conceive. It is given out that as the conflict is still undecided it must of necessity be resumed and concluded some day or another. We trust not. Now that the public, which has grown up almost without knowing what prize fights are, has been made acquainted with their true character, we may expect that it will be long before another exhibition like the great fight of Sayers and Heenan is permitted. Our civilization has cost much, and we can not afford to go back to old ruffianism. From this he will go to Kingston, and thence to Ottawa. From Ottawa to Toronto; thence across the lake to the Falls; and back by rail to Hamilton. He will go to Sarnia to see the Grand Trunk works there, and travel to the Western States incog. Go to Washover the Western States incog. Go to Washington and be the guest of the President, thence visit the Atlantic cities and have his Heet meet him at Portland; or probably if he comes by Portland his departure may be from Quebec, and he may take the Grand Trunk from Portland after the completion of his tour in the United States. At the latest advices our hero was buried in the ghostly retirement of a Redemptorist monastery in the City of Philadelphia, atoning in sackcloth and ashes for past pecadilloes. Capt. Charles Arnaud De Riviere has a lawful spouse residing in the City of Brussels, toward whom he has been provided in the control of the siding in the City of Brussels, toward whom he has long played the part of trnant husband. Sensible of his sins of omission and commission in this respect, he has sought by letter the forgiveness of his wife, and humbly pleaded for a reunion. It is said that Mrs. Capt. De Riviere had been so moved by this proof of the regained affection of her liege lord, and so strack with the goodness of heaven, that she refuses to accede to the wishes of her husband until she shall have spent a year in some quiet convent, engaged The following are the names of the prin-ipal potentates who have suffered excommu-ication, and of the Popes who cut them off rom salvation. nication, and of the Popes who cut them of from salvation:

THE MYSTERIOUS TECHNICALITIES OF PUGILmm.—It seems that the individual who at-tempts to mount the ladder of Fame from the area of the Prize Bing has to climb by many and very unpleasant "rounds." A demany and very unpleasant "rounds. A de-tailed account of the great fight, published in Bell's Life, tells us that the combatants struck each other with mawleys and bunches of fives upon the head, the nut, the cone, the conk, the cannister, the noddle, the mug, the knowledge-box; the nose, the sneezer, the snorer, the snuffer, the snuff-tray, the nozzle, the margard the eves the ordes the ordes. snorer, the snuffer, the snuff-tray, the nozzle, the mazzard; the eyes, the ogles, the optics, the peepers; the mouth, the kisser, the whistler, the oration-trap; drawing the blood, the claret, the ruby, the crimson, the home-brewed, the gravy; and in several instances knocking the unfortunate knocker off his pins, his pegs, his stumps, and his foundation, to say nothing of boring, libbing and sending him to grass. Who wants the Belt? A SUICIDE DELIRIOUS PROM AN OVERDOSE OF A SUICIDE DELIBIOUS PROM AN OVERDOSE OF POISON.—A YOUNG man attempted to poison himself at the Revere House, in Decautr, Illimois, last week. He had been drinking immoderately for several days, and had got pretty well sobered when he did the act. The porter of the hotel gave the alarm, and the young man's room was soon filled with a crowd. He caught up a dirk knife, and drove the crowd down stairs in a rapid manner. Physicians were summoned quickly, and remained with him most of the night. He was raving crazy for several hours after taking

A CANARY BIRD COMMITS SENTIMENTAL SUICIDE.—Recently a canary bird belonging to a lady of Buffalo, N. Y., as it was flying around the room, happend to pick up a long hair, and flying with it to its cage, commained with him most of the night. He was raving crazy for several hours after taking the poison, and the only way his strength could be mastered was by tying his limbs with stout ropes. The letters which he laid upon the table when he first entered the room, menced some evolutions with it as thoug menced some evolutions with it, as though it were about laying the foundation of a nest. By-and-by the hair became entangled in its legs, and flying around the cage it got over the perch and then around its neck. The lady, after some time observing that the unusually musical little pet was silent, went to the cage, and there found the little warbler actually suspended by the neck from its perch, in the agonies of death.

The poet has written how—

"Beanty draws us by a single hair." were directed to his relatives, informing them that he was determined to kill himself. He took an ounce of arsenic—enough to kill five hundred persons—and the overdose acted as an emetic; thus saving his life. PROSPECT OF A GREAT INTERNATIONAL ROW-ING MATCH.—From a card in Bell's Life, of April 1, it appears that an international rowing match at a very early period is not im-probable. The President of the Northern Rowing Club declines to row a turning race of two and a half miles out and home, but "Beanty draws us by a single hair." too tight.

wishes to row a straight five miles with the A REGULARLY SALARIED EXECUTIONES .- 1 A REGULARLY SALARIED EXECUTIONER.—It is generally supposed that Calcraft, who has been engaged in hanging so many miserable wretches during the last quarter of a century, in England, pursues some other less unenviable calling, whereby he gets his livelihood, when his services as an executioner are not called into requisition, but such is not the case. He has a regular salary from the City of London, upon which he lives, and the proceeds of his "engagements" in the country are reckoned as so many additions to his stated income. He has carried on his present vocation between thirty and stream. He is willing to match the Cinspers, the crack crew of Tyne, to row any four-oared crew in America, for £500, reasonable ex-penses to be paid for them coming out. At the same time the London Amateurs are about to make a formal proposition to Mr. Wilkes for an international home and home JUST LIKE A VICIOUS WOMAN.—One day, not long ago, a gentleman residing near Paris had an altercation with the woman who kept had an altercation with the woman who kept had a fever, and died. Just before her death

she exclaimed, "Oh! the wretch; he gave me my death-blow." And soothed by this feminine outbreak, she calmly breathed her last.
The life was no sooner gone from her than the gentleman was arrested on a charge of manslaughter upon the strength of the woman's moribund exclamation. The Court

FATAL WHISKY-DRINKING MATCH .- On MOD FATAL WHISEY-DRINKING MATCH.—On Monday last, a German and an Irishman, at Muskegon, Michigan, obtained a quantity of whisky, and went into a back yard to drink it on a wager, to be won by the one who should drink the largest quantity. The Irishman drank two and a half pints, and the German three pints. The Irishman, Thomas Caton, died during the night, but the German saved his life by eating a quantity of cold tallow, which sickened him and caused his stomach to eject its contents. stomach to eject its contents.

There was a large concourse of people in at-tendance. was crutted, the Court ordered that he should be paid, for time and expenses, £16. As an-other witness was ready, Mr. Gale stood aside; but, on being again called and questioned, declined to answer because he had not redeclined to answer because he had not re-ceived the money. The amount was finally handed to lum, and then the question was repeated—when it appeared that he knew nothing whatevar on the subject. It is need-less to add that Mr. Gale was a lawyer, and Frame Raging in North Carolina.—Terrible conflagrations in the woods have been, and still are, prevailing in the vicinity of Goldsborough, N.O. A legro man fell dead wille endeavoring, with others, to stop the progress of the fire a few miles from that place.

THE KING OF NAPLES A BIGOT.—The King of Naples is preclaimed a bigot, and under the centrel of the priests. Victor Emmanuel has been the recipient of numerous friendly addresses from the Italian clergy. This fact of itself shows the weak effect of the Pope's bull of major excommunication. Hypnorism Dangerous for Women.—Hypnotism is not safe for the patient. M. Girand-Tenlon says that a lady whom he hypnotized made so free with her confidences that he for fear of grave results to her, was obliged to awake her. He thinks that the loss of free will and consience, with the preservation of memory, the passions and the power of speech, does not make up a desirable state.

Yellow Feven at Acapulco.—Yellow fever had developed itself at Acapulco, and had made considerable have among the inhabitants. Twenty deaths had afreedy been reported, but this number, it was thought, would not comprise a moitey of the mortality from that disease.

A New and Novet: Wong.—Ellfot Sheppard Lee, the author of Greek Aphoriton, the D'Angri Bort, and poems of a minor character, is engaged upon a poetical Cosmos, in which he gives a fanciful and original definition of the creation, and the progress of the world, to the election of James Buchanan.
